Reading

Students started reading their novel last week! It was helpful for students to utilize their acquired skills of finding allusions and making inferences prior to beginning their reading. Your student may occasionally come home with assigned readings from the book and we have questions that go along with each chapter as well.

SS

Students learned what primary and secondary sources are. We went on a scavenger hunt around the room to identify different types of sources. This week we are going to begin working on our seven continent maps. Students will be locating and discussing different landforms. Ask your student to sing our continent song for you! :)

Writing

We have the pleasure of having an author come and do a unit with the students! We are going to be completing a fractured fairy tale unit that integrates our three different ecosystems that we have learned about. Also, we are going to have our narratives completed and shared this week.

MATH

This week in math we are going to continue to learn new strategies for multiplication, story problems, and division. Students have been working on making reasonable estimates prior to discovering exact answers. We are going to practice doubling and halving before we start multiplying with money and units of metric measure. Our unit 2 assessment is coming up. Please continue to check your student's assignment notebook to see what is due. :)
