

Ms. Mui's Classroom Newsletter

December 13, 2019

Highlights of the Week:

Daily 5: The class has been exploring more Non-Fiction text and identifying Non-Fiction text features such as a Table of Content, bolded words, and a glossary.

Writing: The 1st graders continued writing their informational teaching books. We also heard from a few students on their progress while the rest of the class provided feedback. Many students also started to wrap up their 1st grade handwriting books!

Math: This week, the students worked on the number line by counting by 1s, 5s, and 10s. We looked at an open number line with empty boxes, which the class had to determine the value. The student also practiced hopping on the number line with two new workplaces!

Theme: We continued our economics discussion on a producer, consumer, goods, and services. We also looked at the process of making salsa and how that connects with economics.

Environmental Education: Ms. Naomi taught us about producers and consumers in nature versus economics. We also learned about food chains.

PBIS: Mrs. Meyer visited our classroom, discussed, and read about our feeling: anger.
